

Paradise Publishers is Developing the Largest Free e-Book Library

Independent American publisher assumes ownership of free online ebook resource and is currently developing the largest free ebook library to further position itself in the information market.

Paradise publishers Inc, a web based publishing firm acquired the website www.Free-eBooks.net earlier this month of April, 2006. The site currently generates over 2.6 million hits monthly and Paradise Publishers Inc. plans to increase traffic tremendously by creating to world's largest free e-book online database.

“We want to be people's source of information” says Nicolas Gremion, Paradise Publishers Inc. President. “Similar to the Google model, we're giving our users instant access to free info on any topic under the sun” he continues. “By providing great benefits to our visitors we shall continue to increase our traffic flow and elevate Free-eBook.net among the ranks of the most popular sites on the net, period”.

The website www.Free-eBooks.net is currently a top resource on the internet for free e-books and offers selections from a wide variety of authors on a vast array of topics. Currently the website offers thousands of e-books downloadable instantly without cost or membership. Large renovations are undergoing to enhance user experience, expand the library and offer additional free products to all visitors.

“Whether its fiction, guides, how-to manuals, references, all categories, people are increasingly deciding not to leave their homes to access books anymore” says Mr. Gremion. He ads “e-books have become mega-popular in the last few years, and as the trend in internet use continues to grow so shall our user base”.

www.Free-eBooks.net will also soon permit users to submit their own e-books to the site. Similar to article submission sites, www.Free-eBook.net will receive, review and upon approval, will upload e-books to their database for all users to access. Creating and publishing e-books is not only easy, but can bring instant credibility and awareness to an author and his business/activities. Paradise Publishers will capitalize on those aspects to encourage authors to submit their books.

“This is not only an incredible opportunity for us, but for the whole internet community” explains Nicolas Gremion. “Internet users gain access to an incredible free information database, authors are given a chance to reach an audience and marketers can promote themselves through books”. In closing he remarks “Our true sign of success will manifest itself when the online community forms itself around our site”.
