

Free e-Book Library Gets Serious Boost From Internet Genius

Mega-popular website dedicated to providing free e-book for all to use will receive major face-lift from Tim Knox; acclaimed online guru.

Paradise Publishers Inc, a web based publishing firm announced today it has retained the services of nationally-recognized Internet design and marketing expert Tim Knox to lead the redesign and launch of Paradise's www.free-ebooks.net website.

Knox is the founder/president of three highly successful companies, a contributing writer for Entrepreneur.com and has created the internet's #1 website for eBay and online entrepreneurs. Mr. Knox's latest e-book, Create Multiple Streams of Online Income is one of the most downloaded ebooks on the Web.

Under this agreement, Mr. Knox's primary goals are to create greater awareness of www.free-ebooks.net and efficiently allow visitors instant access to the information/entertainment they seek.

"Free-ebooks.net already generates over 2,6 million hits a month, so we are already a highly established and respected resource for anyone seeking free ebooks," said Knox. "Our intent is to enhance the user experience even further by giving the site a facelift that makes it easier to navigate, add more free titles and give people exactly what they want."

According to Nicolas Gremion, president of Paradise Publishers, "We are ecstatic to have Tim on our team. His personal newsletter is read by over 65,000 people weekly and his websites generate millions of dollars in revenue each year. So to say we're excited about having him onboard is an understatement."

Mr. Gremion goes on to explain that "Free-ebooks.net will be to e-books what Google is to information. "Our goal is nothing less than to have the largest collection of free information on the internet, period."

Paradise publishers and Tim Knox hope to further build on its already popular website in order to allow more authors to submit their works through www.Free-eBook.net.

By having more uploads the internet community as a whole is set to gain from new and exciting information. The uploading authors can subsequently reach millions of people through the website's massive visitor base.

In true entrepreneurial spirit the website will remain free of charge for both authors, and readers to use each day. The no cost option will no doubt liberate struggling authors to become both recognized, and profitable. Mr. Knox would not have it any other way, after all he lives by the famous words, "It's time to put the entrepreneur back in business."
